

Health and Safety in the Workplace

Effective occupational safety management is critical in ensuring healthy and safe work environment for employees, customers and general public. Business owners must comply with OHS requirements and work towards improving the results they achieve to minimise emotional and physical effects of the workplace injury. WHSM can help you achieve this goal.

Contact us when:

- A staff member is complaining of pain/discomfort when working at the computer (workplace assessment is required)
- A staff member is wanting to work from home (home office assessment is required)
- A risk assessment of the work area is required to identify, assess and control risks and hazards
- Due to work demands manual handling and ergonomic training programs are required for your staff
- A staff member suffers an injury at work and needs assistance with the return to work process
- A staff member is complaining of stress due to work demands or other factors in their life
- Functional assessments are conducted to assess physical and psychological tolerances and limitations in relation to work duties
- When you need assistance with OHS Policies and Procedures manual
- When you have an OHS query that you want a quick solution to

We can assist employers with the prevention and management of workplace injuries and illness delivered according to individual requirements and needs.